

HARDING PRESSES SHIP SUBSIDY BILL

But House Republican Leaders Tell President Delay Inevitable.

OPPOSITION UNCOVERED

Washington Believes Measure Will Not Pass House Before December.

[By Associated Press.]
WASHINGTON, June 3.—President Harding's effort today to speed up consideration of the administration's ship subsidy bill started a flood of discussion in House Republican circles as to the prospect of action on the measure prior to adjournment of Congress.

At a White House conference with House leaders today the President was informed that the bill probably would be ready for submission to Republican members of the Merchant Marine Committee in the latter part of next week, but that many Republicans were not disposed to take up new legislation toward the end of the session.

Opposition to Measure.
The leaders, it was understood, frankly told the President there was opposition to the bill among Republicans from Middle Western States, and that there was a possibility of almost solid Democratic opposition. It was explained to the President that while some Republicans, classed now as doubtful, felt the measure should be passed, they were faced with the quandary of voting for it in view of reported opposition to it among their constituents.

The upshot of the informal discussion among House leaders as gathered in private conversations was that it was extremely doubtful whether the bill could be put through the House until the December session—and until after the November elections.

Must Press for Success.
One of the members with whom the President talked—a strong advocate of the bill—said to have told Mr. Harding that once the bill is reported it will be necessary for him to get behind the leadership and demand its prompt passage as a party measure.

The bill as drafted by Chairman Lasker, of the Shipping Board, is undergoing many changes at the hands of a merchant marine subcommittee. It must be considered later by all the Republican members and then by the full committee, including Democrats. Then it may go to a Republican conference before reaching the House.

TABB MEMORIAL LIBRARY CONTEST WAXES WARM

Contestants May Obtain Enrollment Blanks From State Librarian.

All children desiring enrollment blanks for the John B. Tabb Library contest can obtain them from the librarian in the State Library Building, although these are not essential and votes sent in by boys and girls on ordinary paper will be counted just the same. The contest is open to all white children in the Commonwealth, for the library is for everybody less than 17 years old, those out of town using the parcel post system.
The only thing those taking part have to do is to get grown people to join the John B. Tabb Memorial Association, the dues being used to purchase more books, and there are three kinds of memberships: annual, $1; contributing, $5; and life, $25. Each dollar represents one vote. The winners will be awarded big prizes, the first being $100 in cash and the second $50. The contest will close on the 1st of September.

The library has an excellent selection of books for both boys and girls of all ages, but as the number of patrons is increasing rapidly, the stock must be constantly enlarged to meet the demand. Children who have no definite idea of what book they want to read will find Miss Elizabeth Knox, the librarian, always eager to give assistance. There are stories of adventure, animal yarns, Boy Scout series, the big game series and Elsie and Louisa Alcott books, besides the standard volumes.

Children of public, private and parochial schools are all urged to get into the contest immediately, for it lasts only six weeks. All communications should be addressed to "Contest Director," John B. Tabb Library, and checks must be made payable to John B. Tabb Memorial Association, and no receipts will be issued, except when expressly desired.

LEE COUNTY GREET'S TRINKLE WITH BAND

Governor Crosses Mountain in Open Gasoline Truck Motor.

By Carter W. Wormeley.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NORTON, VA., June 3.—Leaving Wise County, Governor Trinkle, who is on a tour of inspection of coal mining properties in Southwest Virginia, today invaded Lee County, where he was met at a Charles by a crowd of several hundred inhabitants with a brass band, and a great concourse of children, principally girls of ten and twelve years, came forward in a body when the train bearing the executive drew up at St. Charles and presented him with bouquets of fresh mountain flowers.
The Governor was visibly deeply touched. Governor Trinkle was taken in charge at St. Charles by Charles W. Bourdure, an important coal operator, who conducted him over the principal properties of that section. Earlier in the day the executive visited several of the units of the Stonega Coke and Coal Co. and will leave Norton tomorrow for his home in Wytheville and arrive in Richmond Monday morning.

A feature of the Governor's trip today was his ride from St. Charles, in Lee, to Appalachia, in Wise, over the Appalachian Railway in an open track motor, accompanied by S. H. Goodwin, superintendent of the division. The trip was through that section of the mountains in which was laid the scenes in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." A few miles distant the Black Mountain marked the dividing line between Virginia and Kentucky. The scenery was rugged and grand. The gasoline track motor, which the Governor rode, was carried through the mountains in the same way some years ago served a like purpose for John Fox, author of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Governor Trinkle appeared to have enjoyed nothing more than his pleasant trip through the cliffs of the Appalachians on the track motor.
